

The Heart of Bangkok by Bike (Half Day)

Tour details

In the morning, transfer from your hotel by vehicle to Wat Klong Toey Nok where you will start a unique cycling tour to discover the heart of Bangkok.

Begin by cycling to the city's biggest daily fresh market, Talad Klong Toey. Here, we park the bikes and stroll through the huge market where there are all kinds of local produce and goods on sale, such as seafood, fruit, vegetables, clothing, kitchenware and more at amazingly low prices. This fascinating market is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, yet is rarely visited by tourists. Back on the bikes, we safely cross the road passing Queen Sirikit National Convention Center to reach Benjakitti Park. The park opened in 2004 and is a cycling haven with a large lake surrounded by flowers and provides an interesting contrast to the skyscrapers of the nearby Sukhumvit district. Also in this area are the Tobacco Monopoly warehouses where cigarettes are still produced, and we cycle in between the warehouses.

Next, continue onto a bicycle and pedestrian overpass (no cars allowed) that crosses the city from east to west. Here we cycle above mosques, temples, churches and even small shacks before reaching Lumpini Park, Bangkok's very own Central Park. This is Bangkok's largest park and a wonderfully shady place to ride through. You may see locals practising their tai chi, yoga and even ballroom dancing. The park is also famous for its prehistoric-looking residents, the monitor lizard. These intimidating looking – yet harmless – reptiles can actually climb trees, so look up and you may see one!

After exploring the park, we cross the main road and continue through the backstreets of Sathorn to the end point back at Wat Klong Toey Nok. For some of the journey, we will cycle along a disused railway track, which at certain times of the year is very colourful as it is overgrown with wildflowers and vegetation. After returning the bikes, you will be transferred back to the hotel by vehicle.
